Dear Ladies, dear Sirs,

let me first shortly introduce myself. I am a professor for Psychology in Special Education, work in the field of giftedness and creativity since more than 25 years and was strongly involved in international activities in this field, recently as President of the World Council for Gifted and Talented Children (2001-05).

I heard about plans to establish a kindergarten for gifted children in your city and take this opportunity to strongly support this endeavour, which not only gives necessary developmental input to the individual children, but is a big step forward to a gifted education, dealing with differentiation in heterogeneity, from which finally all children and lastly the society will get profit. I founded the first German (perhaps European) kindergarten for the gifted in 1985 and I am glad and proud to see the grown up young adults now, taking over responsible positions and starting to give meaningful feedback to society.

I would like to encourage you to support the establishment of that kindergarten - which still would be relatively unique in Europe and might find international attention – as much as you can.

Sincerely
